(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
LONDON, June 13.—Great crowds lined the streets today in the vicinity of St. Paul's cathedral and stood for hours in the rain awaiting the arrival of King George, Queen Mary and Dowager Queen Alexandra for the memorial services for Field Marshal Kitchener.

No troops lined the streets through which the royal party was to pass and there was no guard of honor.

A feature of the service was the part taken by the band of royal engineers and the drummers of the Irish guard, of which corps Lord Kitchener was honorary colonel.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Preferred against Marion Williams by George F. Ulrich, Postoffice Inspector.

At 6 o'clock Monday evening Marion Williams finished his time in the county jail and on the roads for a violation of the prohibition law and thought he was to have his liberty but was badly mistaken as J. D. Moore, a United States deputy marshal, served a warrant upon him charging him with using the mails to defraud and secure money under false pretense. He was returned to jail and will be given a hearing in a few days at Parkersburg.

George F. Ulrich, a postoffice inspector, worked up the case against Williams. He says Williams wrote a letter to Lee Shaffer, of Cairo, demanding him to send him $10. Shaffer took the matter up with the postoffice department with the results stated above.

It will be remembered that Williams escaped from the road gang when he had about one-half of his time finished and was arrested at Cairo and brought back here to finish out his time.

Mayor John H. Buschmeyer, of Louisville, was the most seriously injured. He, however, did not require the services of a physician.

The third sleeping car from the rear was derailed by a split switch. The two sleepers following also left the rails. The rear car sidetracked a box car and turned over.

MRS. MURRY DEAD

Father White, rector of the church, will have charge of the services and the burial will be in the Long Run cemetery. wards for special efforts. The two Overland six cylinder cars are the first grand prizes and the many others are everyone attractive and desirable. These will be awarded to those making the largest vote scores, while all the rest will receive generous cash commissions. Could anything be more fair or more equitable than this?

The "10,000 Club" plan is not a small affair whereby you can secure twenty-five or fifty dollars, and then find yourself unable to progress farther. There is no limit to what you can secure here, and at the same time you are guaranteed absolutely against loss. The fact that two automobiles worth $1,145 each are hanging in the balance waiting for the member of the club who stands highest on July 29, is sufficient inducement for men and women of influence to lend their efforts to the race. That's the Telegram's way of doing things—The Big Way.

is as thorough as the United States army officers can make it in that time. The first week is given over to squad and company drilling in marching and the manual of arms. Battalion drills and preliminary instructions in rifle firing occurs the second week. Extensive target practice takes up the greater part of the third week, and cross-country "hikes" and extended marches consume the fourth week.

Wonderful improvement in the work of this year's "rookies" is shown over those of last year. This is chiefly accounted for by the presence of many of last year's students, who are taking more advanced work this year. Their presence in the ranks steadies the newer men. Most of the 1915 men were placed in command of squads and much of the detailed work in the training of the recruits was done by them. The second-year students have been given the privilege of taking instruction in other branches of the service than the infantry. Good sized detachments of the regular cavalry, artillery and hospital troops are present at Plattsburg, and they have taken the rolls of instructors. The elective courses have also been partially opened to the first-year men.

Many of last year's students went home so imbued with the Plattsburg idea that they have returned this year leading delegations from their homes. Notably in this list is S. Parkman Shaw, Jr., secretary of the Old Colony Trust Company, of Boston. He brought with him twenty boys from his bank. The institution is giving the men a four-weeks' vacation and pays all of their expenses. Eighteen more employees of the Old Colony will be sent on to the later encampments. Professor William E. Hocking, of Harvard University, gave up the fifteenth anniversary of his class to attend.

If anything has been proved in the short time this year's encampment has been in session, it is that the "Plattsburg idea" has come to stay. The originators of the plan believed in a non-compulsory military curriculum that would give the country a volunteer federal reserve. Their plan is working out to perfection now.
